

Writing is like driving at night in the fog.

You can only see as far as your headlights,

but you can make the whole trip
that way.”

—E.L. Doctorow